A fundamental objective of our hearings will be to provide the members with background information and analysis on several of the past House reorganization efforts. All of us need to know what lessons or insights can be learned from what has happened in the past. Were real reforms achieved or were some of the boxes simply shifted around or committees renamed with no significant improvement in how we conduct or business We also need to hear from experts who can perhaps identify other major institutional reform areas that merit review and attention by this subcommittee. Our ranking member Louise Slaughter and I plan to include a panel of former Cabinet Secretaries at todays hearing. We wanted to consider their views on how they worked with the Congress committees. However, many of the people we invited were out of the country or had conflicting engagements and they could not be with us today, so we will try to schedule that panel at a later date. At this point I would ask any members of the subcommittee for any opening statements. Mr. Dreier. Mr. Dreier. Thank you, Mr. Chairman. Let me congratulate you and our friend Mrs. Slaughter, with whom I just attended the U. S. -canada conference this weekend. She is coming back because she is actually participating in another subcommittee hearing of this committee in Canada now, or I guess it is in New York, where they are holding this meeting. Let me say that this is obviously very, very important what we are undertaking here. The mandate of this...
